Art Unit: 1742

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

3. Claims 1-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cadle et al.

Cadle et al. disclose the invention substantially as claimed. Cadle et al. disclose at col. 2, lines 1-5, a method and apparatus for densifying the surface of a part, including a gear (col. 1, lines 39-50), comprising:

engaging a sintered part with a second die;

wherein the second die is of smaller dimension than a first die from which the sintered part was initially sized; and densifying the sintered part (col. 2, line 62 to col. 3, line 11).

Art Unit: 1742

Cadle et al. states that the sintered part is "pushed into" (col. 2, line 62), but does not state that the part is passed through the die.

It is common knowledge in the prior art to pass parts through a compacting die in the same field of endeavor to allow the method of sizing to be performed in a continuous manner.

It would have been common knowledge in the prior art to allow the part to pass through the second die in order to allow for unit operation of the die in a continuous manner, providing for successive dies in order to achieve a desired degree of densification.

Additionally, helical gear shapes of broadening teeth profile are commonly formed by sintered metal processing, and to use such a shape in the invention of Cadle would have been obvious.
